I'm Carol, owner of Wellbeing Pathways

Passionate about your potential

Success mindset is a way of thinking and living that empowers you in your life. I have the privilege to see the amazing changes that developing a success mindset can spark for my clients as they learn how to let their talent shine through.

I am a certified and registered clinical hypnotherapist and mindfulness instructor, with additional training to support your success mindset release.

About

Go with the flow

Performance improvement can mean different things to different people at different times in life. Your focus could be to improve your sports performance, music, acting, hobbies, within work, being more organised or anything that you want to become better at doing.

Whatever it is, the one thing that can support your progress or achievement is a success mindset. There's a state of flow that professional performers strive for. Their mind is focused and clear as they perform at their best. It is entirely possible to learn and develop this same state of mind too so you can improve your performance in your chosen area.

Hypnotherapy can help enhance performance, and ignite your success mindset because thoughts influence your emotions, your responses and your ability to succeed.

Testimonial

“The sessions totally changed my life. Carol is so professional and understanding.

No matter what you struggle with Carol will help tailor a plan to you with what ever you need.

She is a credit to her occupation.”
